
Government Relations Update for March 2014

2014 Short Session Ends In a Flurry

President Maples explains Oregon Tech and the TRU university governance model to Rep. Gail Whitsett.

Oregon Tech took an active role in the 2014 legislative session that started in early February and ended on March 7, 2014. President Maples was a visible legislative advocate and spoke to over 30 legislators, multiple times, about expanding Oregon Tech's options related to seeking a governing board, in addition to work on funding for university shared services, seeking capital construction funding to repair the tunnels on the Klamath Falls campus, and providing input on many other bills that affect higher education in Oregon. He joined the presidents from EOU and SOU in many joint meetings with legislators and testified on HB 4018A with EOU President Davies, related to university governance.

Many thanks to all of the Oregon Tech team members who contributed in Salem this session:

- VP Finance and Administration, MaryAnn Zemke and Facilities Director, Eric Rulofson, about our capital construction needs.
- Business Affairs Director, Courtney Tacchini, who testified about HB4102, related to contracting for student financial aid services.
- Dan Bates, lobbyist from Thorn Run Partners, who helped shepherd HB4018 through the process to passage.

Oregon Tech also benefitted from the support of PSU and UO testimony in support of HB4018A, and UO President Gottfredson, who wrote a letter of support related to technical and regional university governance (see attached).

UO President Gottfredson wrote a letter of support for HB 4018.

University Governance Bills

HB 4018, which changes the date by which Eastern Oregon University, Oregon Institute of Technology, Southern Oregon University or Western Oregon University may request institutional governing board to May 15, 2014 and changes process of board formation, passed unanimously in both the House and the Senate on March 7, 2014. This bill was pre-session filed by the House Committee on Higher Education and Workforce Development, with Representative Buckley and Senator Dembrow in strong roles as negotiators of eight rounds of amendments that helped to finally produce a consensus bill.

Rep. Gail Whitsett testified in support of HB 4018.

Essentially the bill provides the State Board of Higher Education (SBHE) with more options when deciding whether to endorse or not endorse a university's request to have a governing board. With HB4018, the SBHE can now endorse a university to have a governing board, with some conditions, which will be mutually agreed upon, in addition to the two previous options of not endorsing a request for a board or endorsing a request for a board unconditionally. It also describes a process that will be followed if a university governing board that is endorsed with conditions does not meet the conditions.

President Maples has already informed the SBHE that Oregon Tech will seek their endorsement for a governing board. SB4018 shows the legislative support for proceeding with governing boards for the technical and regional universities, and provides the SBHE with more options in case they have reservations about independent boards for any or all of the technical and regional universities.

Rep. Peter Buckley, D-Ashland, was the key advocate for HB 4018.

HB 4018 also authorizes the HECC to participate in the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education State Authorization Reciprocity Agreement (WICHE SARA) and to impose a fee on educational institutions in Oregon that elect to participate in the SARA program through the HECC. In addition, the bill transfers the Department of Community College and Workforce Development (CCWD) to the HECC, and establishes a task force to develop recommendations for integrating CCWD into HECC. The measure also establishes the Public University Fund that allows institutions with governing boards to continue to commingle money with other universities.
