Digital-Repository Release Statement

Oregon Tech keeps a digital repository of Capstone Projects and MS Theses. This is a searchable database which provides a central collection point and is accessible through the web.

Students who post their Capstone Project on the digital repository can benefit by retaining access to their project report after graduation, or referencing it in their resume so that prospective employers can access it.

Copyright of the work is retained by the student(s). For inclusion in the digital repository, the student(s) must select the appropriate box below to give the library one-time digital-publishing rights. The student(s) retain(s) all copyright after that.

Please check the corresponding box below indicating whether you would agree to your project being included in the Oregon Tech Library digital repository (check only one):

☐ Yes, include my project in the digital repository.
   I/we understand that by selecting this option I/we give Oregon Tech the right to digitally publish and provide free access via the Internet to my/our senior project as detailed above. I/We understand that I/we retain all copyright and publishing rights to the work.

☐ No, do not include my project in the digital repository.
   I/we understand the purpose and benefits of the digital repository, but elect not to participate for the following reason(s) (Optional): _____
   _____
   _____
